

Insurrectional Radiography and History of Germany, Italy and Soviet Union - 1904 - 1921

By Shomit Sirohi

I. Firing the Line - Antonio Gramsci and the Frontlines of Turin, Milan and Rome

In 1900, the three young sectors began the movement - Italian Gramsci with Karl Korsch as advisor, and Rosa Luxemburg, Alexandra Kollontai and Karl Liebknecht in Spartacus League in Germany with in fact Trotsky in Soviet Union putting in his first thesis - Results and Prospects (Young, 21 edition).

By 1904, Germany was organizing feminist mass conduct - imagine a set of women being mobilized at one sector and told to mobilize all women from all sectors and from proletarian to bourgeois, the spontaneity was sex with a man called Prophet. This became general campaigns for men to in fact believe in feminism, and a number of calls for women to fall in love with in fact leaders, which was the general campaign of free love.

In 1907, Gramsci sets off a number of general strikes - imagine a small group - the PCI which is a noyeaux which then commands the line by in fact its nature of discourse, and simply won hegemony or leadership function and then stood up on podiums and dictated a conversion of the factory unions into small committees which would mount into councils.

II. Germany and Soviet Union - Cut Short of Insurrection in 1917

First of course, comes Leon Trotsky's Results and Prospects a - set of minimal lines and repetitions of his style - a conceptual speaker in fact trained in praxis - and he means he wants a mass line in line with Mao Zedong, and in fact a trade union format in permanent insurrectional strike. Received as disciplined mass activism Trotsky then aimed at Permanent Revolution to be released in 1914, its elements were in fact spontaneity and wild-cat strike dynamics pushing into councils, which then form Soviets and become seizure of state power which breaks into democracy.

In 1908, Rosa Luxemburg, Alexandra Kollontoi and Karl Liebknecht do an all sector run for a insurrectional public strike in the central plaza and that becomes a bird's eye mass of 70,000 people, mostly the proletariat and retail proletariat with common students and this is gunned down by rubber bullets with Spartacus League called off for too much violence and anarchism.

Trotsky is of course connecting to the April line from Lenin, that he will just take state power.

All of this is called stikhinost by the CPSU and condemned along with Social Democracy under Karl Kautsky in Germany, but they reserve the term rapid insurrectional strikes because of general crisis and depression leading to spontaneity.

III. Mao - a Young Tactician - and Reserved Militant

Mao was young and set off the first run from teaching years in Yunan to in fact a April thesis of his own as peasant strike and working class strike in 1921. All is lost, and Communism has failed he meant. Because all lines were thrown into the general spontaneity, and even Lenin has failed. I mean of course, that America will also run into deep crisis, and the future of China is in deep crisis.

"Call me a Prophet."

- Leon Trotsky, April 1929.
